

Real Life 'Coming to America'

Tuesday, 20 October 2009

Last Updated Friday, 29 January 2010

Charles Wesley Mumbere during an interview at his house in Kasese, Sunday, Oct 18, 2009 hours before he was crowned king of the ethnic group the Bakonjo people in the Rwenzururu district of western Uganda. An African man who worked for years as a nurse's aide in the United States, caring for the elderly and sick, is back in his homeland after he was crowned king of his people in the mountains of western Uganda. Read the full story here via Yahoo!

(AP Photo/Karel Prinsloo)